Puns by Karthik Narayanan, London

There are recorded incidents that in close association with jñāni-s even insentient things can gain some sentience.

Here's one such:

As soon Swamiji started his class and was unfolding sthūla śarīra, an overweight elderly student walked in. There was not a free chair in the class. Feeling for his size and age, Swamiji offered his stool to him.

Just as the elderly overweight gentlemen sat on it, everyone distinctly heard Swamiji's stool groaning: "Ouch, my poor stool-a śarīra!".
